

CLAS 230-01 Classical Mythology: Creation Myths

.5 Credit, 2nd ½
Spring Semester
Wallace 114
9:30-10:45am
Tues. & Thurs.
Instructor: Lorenzo

It is human nature to wonder about the unknown and search for answers. At the foundation of every culture is a creation myth that helps explain the wonders of the earth and how we came to occupy our place in it. Such myths take place in fantastic worlds with rich stories that have inspired writers and cinematographers for years. In this course, we will explore some of the creation stories of the ancient world, broadly defined. We will not only read several from the Mediterranean basin, but also a selection from various world mythologies. We will consider their cultural meanings and modern roles.

So register for CLAS 230-01 today to learn more about creation myths from Egypt, Greece, Rome, the Near East, Central America, Japan, China, North America, and possible others!
