

The Monmouth College

Department of Classics

presents

the Twentieth Annual Bernice L. Fox Classics Lecture

"Let the Tears Fall": On Producing Euripides' Trojan Women
for a Modern Audience

by

Dr. James DeYoung

Professor Emeritus of Monmouth College

Tuesday, March 15, 2005

7:30 P.M.

Highlander Room

The Stockdale Center

Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois

Professor De Young will be serving as the Dramaturge for the Monmouth College production of the Trojan Women to be performed in the Wells Theatre on March 17-20, 2005. His lecture will review ancient production methods and historical criticism in the light of current archaeological evidence and commentary. He will then discuss the way these insights can be used to inform the staging of the play in the 21st century.